

EDITORIAL LETTER

Dear Reader/Subscriber,

As announced in BELLS 2, the draw for 2 return tickets to London, courtesy of BRITISH AIRWAYS, took place on March 1st 1991. The draw was "staged" in the office of the Dean of Philology at the University of Barcelona in the presence of the Dean's secretary, a representative of BRITISH AIRWAYS and a representative of BELLS. Each subscriber was given a number and all the numbers were placed in a box. The BRITISH AIRWAYS representative pulled out three numbers in case the first or second winner was unable to accept the tickets. The first number drawn belonged to Teresa Lozano, a student in her final year in the Department of English and German at the University of Barcelona. Teresa was delighted to accept the tickets and made her trip to London at the end of April this year. We do hope that we shall be able to offer further trips in later issues of the journal.

This issue of BELLS (3) has acquired a creative writing and interview (ap)peal. David Gervais's article on Geoffrey Hill will be included in BELLS 4 instead of in the present issue.
