

Acknowledgments

My special thanks go to Salvador Roig Planells and Fernando Marí Serra for their collaboration in the preparation of the basic material for this guide, which has seen the beginning and end of their architecture studies. Their exceptional readiness and enthusiasm have proven indispensable to the completion of the work. Also to my friend Bartolo Mestre for his encouragement, and for his direct participation in the writing of the texts, the responsibility for which we share. To Toni Ferran for having generously allowed me to consult the documents he, along with his wife, Elena Bargas, and the architects Josep Vilanova and Carme Marqués, prepared on rural dwellings. To Rolph Blakstad for having placed at my disposal his thesis on the origins of rural houses on Ibiza and for letting me reproduce an extract from it. To Cati Verdera, whose dissertation on Ibiza rural houses has made a major contribution to the subject. To Toniet Ribas who, in 1972, helped me measure the churches. To Vicente Calbet, Fernando Belenguer, Xavier Vendrell, Josep M.^a Vallés, Javier Planas, Pep Torres, Joan Roig, Joan Vert, Angel Orbañanos, Nuria Cusell, Enric Batlle, Miguel Usandizaga, Dolors Truco, Jean Serra, Juan Canale, Manolo Ros, Antonio Tur, Joana Torres, Carmen Ribas and Pepita Reig who have all been occasional contributors to the guide. To Joan Marí Cardona, Josep Marí Marí, and Marià Villangómez who have advised me on themes of Ibiza's history and culture. To all those people who have most generously allowed us entry into their houses, even to make plans, and to those who have offered us oral or written information concerning subjects in the guide. Special thanks go also to my colleagues José Antonio Martínez and Lluís Cantallops for their patience in putting up for years with material for this guide, which occupied tables, walls, floors and rooms in our studio, and from which they have at last been liberated. Finally my thanks go to those friends of mine who had given up hope of ever seeing it published.

July 1980

E. T.